Mt Hutt Open Day Raises $20k for OIH

Annie Jacobs

The much-awaited Mt Hutt Open Day on Saturday dawned with absolutely sparkling weather, producing a bluebird day for getting up the mountain.

Vehicles started arriving early and were making the drive up, ready to go for the chairlift swinging from 9.30am.

The day is a collaboration between Methven Lions and Mt Hutt Skifield and once expenses are paid, the proceeds are divided between the two groups. This year, both groups decided to donate the proceeds to assisting building development at Ōpuke Innovation Hub (OIH) at Mt Hutt College. The OIH's core goal is to deliver an inspiring, fit-for-purpose and future-focused Trades and Agriculture curriculum, equipping students with essential practical skills, ready for the workplace.

With just under 700 tickets sold, sightseers, mountain bikers and the community turned out - one sightseer had travelled from Australia to attend, having missed the event other years! The Summit 6 chairlift carried hundreds of people up to the middle peak of the maunga (mountain). And it was sightseers who turned out in the greatest numbers, with around 100 of those attending being mountain bikers. They had a brilliant day biking the trails or carving out a new way to get back to the base, only to ride the chairlift for another exhilarating run.

Aoraki Mt Cook was clearly visible to the west, views up the Rakaia Gorge were stunning, with the Rakaia River braiding its way out to sea to the east.

The day was magnificently supported with Mt Hutt staff, Methven Lions and students and staff from OIH staffing the Mt Hutt Cafe, selling tickets, directing parking, selling barbecue and much more.

Hato Hone St John attended to administer to any potential injuries or mishaps and while there were a few spills, there weren't any major injuries.

Mt Hutt Area manager James McKenzie said "We couldn't have asked for a better day, fantastic support from the community and great to see everyone out having such an awesome time."

Methven Lions Organiser, Mac McElwain said, "Major accolades should to to Mt Hutt, JMac and their team. They gave freely of their time in a collaboration that will be of serious help to Methven and surrounds."

"I was seriously impressed by the contribution the Ōpuke Innovation Hub students made to the success of the day, how they were prepared to help us help them and how maturely they conducted themselves."

Mt Hutt College Welcomes New Families with Pōwhiri

Annie Jacobs

The MHC Senior Leadership Team and Senior Student Leaders

Principal Jack Saxon hongi's with Alex Roberts

Senior Student Leaders greet and welcome some of the new junior students

Kēryn Hooker gives her pepeha

Mt Hutt College (MHC) held it's annual Pōwhiri (welcome) on Monday morning to welcome new students and families to the school.

Guests/visitors/newcomers (manuhere) are called (karanga) to the meeting place where introductions begin. Newcomers share their name, where they come from, the mountain or river that is part of their home or that they align with (their pepeha) so that others learn a little bit about them.

Principal Jack Saxon shared a whakatauki (proverb) which, loosely translated said that one bird starts the song of the forest and others join in. He said it resonates as birds of the forest are different, just as there are different students at Mt Hutt College.

Jack shared that there are over 100 students whose Parents pay for them to come here, with many coming from Switzerland, Thailand and Brazil.

The College welcomes two new staff Keryn Hooker who will teach in the Junior School and Alex Roberts (previously a foreman at McIntosh Building), who will work on the right hand side section of the Ōpuke Innovation Hub (OIH) with Level One and Senior Trades students.

Jack said that fundraising for OIH has raised $200,000 since last year.

Jack said to the new students, "You will be bombarded with opportunities. Try it, do it." He encourage the students to have high standards for themselves and to do the right thing even when it's hard and when no one is watching.

"We expect excellence and doing your best," and in closing said, "with your basket and our basket, our students will thrive."

New staff and students then stood to hongi (share breath) with the MHC Senior Leadership Team and Senior Student Leaders.

It is traditional that after the formalities of a Pōwhiri are complete, the host provides kai (food) to share.

Winners of Colouring in Competition

Closing with our last edition last year, the Snowfed in collaboration with Station Coffee ran a Christmas colouring-in competition.

The competition was first run in 2024 and proved popular, so it was decided to run it again, this time opening it up to all age groups - adults included.

One of the Station Coffee family designed the picture to be coloured incorporating key elements from the sponsors. Another was Santa's helper, designing a Santa's mailbox so that the filled in colouring-in could be posted to Santa.

In 2024, the judges (more of Santa's helpers), spent a long time deliberating over the winners as the quality of the colouring-in in each age group was incredibly high.

The 2025 competition did not disappoint and again the judges had a tough time choosing winners, due to the magnificent effort of all of the competitors. The prizewinners were: 3-5 years: 1st Sophie Schofield, 2nd Archie Tare, 3rd Shelby, 4th Adaline Bailey. 6-12 years: 1st Elliot Russell, 2nd Annabelle Marr, 3rd Neeva. Adults (16 years and over): 1st Cooper Duff, 2nd Farrah Wilson. All winners have been notified.

Enormous thanks to the Elliot family and Station Coffee for their generous support and prize sponsorship.

Rakaia Gorge Trapping News

Rakaia Gorge Fantail Trust
Robert and Christine Koller

The Trapper Monthly has its first birthday! It seems much longer than twelve months but then the months and years just go by in a flash - a fantail flash!

I would love to grow the audience or the readership somehow. So, if you have a friend or somebody interested in nature and maybe a slight inclination towards the business of trapping then please forward their details to: quickenberry@xtra.co.nz

The month of January has been a wet one to say the least. The constant rain thwarted many outings and delayed many projects some of which are now scheduled for February or even March. The good thing is that the birds are now almost over their breeding season and the young ones leave their nests filling the forest with more bird song!

The whereabouts of some of the birds is sometimes hard to understand. Where are they all? I know they are there somewhere but on some days the forest is not as filled with birds as I would expect and as I have seen it. The fantails seem to disappear and some days I see none of them at all although they have come back again in the last few days of January.

The lack of trapping days shows in the catch rate. We had 10 outings and caught 11 possums, 14 rats, 2 stoats, 1 hedgehog and 1 weasel. The possum number is somewhat large considering the last few months. Most of them were caught on the lower part of the track towards the bridge on District Line. Along that line there is a huge re-invasion problem as behind it a gully leads up to almost Terrace Downs and there is no trapping undertaken. There are some strategically placed traps along that line, such as T98, which form a kind of virtual fence, to prevent too much re-invasion.

Due to the bad weather, not much maintenance of traps has been done. I just managed to visit twenty of our AT220 traps which all needed the batteries recharged and fresh lure bags. The batteries last about six months after which the trap stops working. The traps often need cleaning as a dead rat might be stuck in there, disabling the trap.

A Grey Warbler (Riroriro)

It is astonishing how well the Little Fantail Shop in the forest on the Rakaia Gorge Walkway has done in January, despite the rain. People sometimes still walk the track in the wildest weather as I can see when they sign the visitor's book, then buy a token from the shop. The mailbox too is used much more often than I anticipated. The post cards that Juliana produces are irresistible. She has also created a special edition stamp, an official New Zealand post stamp. This $2.90 stamp covers sending postcards all over the world!

To listen to the song of a Grey Warbler (Riroriro) go to: https://www.doc.govt.nz/globalassets/documents/conservation/native-animals/birds/bird-song/grey-warbler-song.mp3

Rakaia Gorge Trapping 2025 numbers to date: 1,216 possums, 1832 rats, 306 hedgehogs, 169 mustelids and 175 others.

Since the project began: 4,198 predators removed.

Methven Community Board in Brief

Annie Jacobs

Extra people present: Carol McAtamney (Minutes), Tania Paddock Group Manager Legal and Democracy, Toni Durham Community and Open Spaces, Neil McCann Group Manager Infrastructure, Hernando and Justin ADC Solid Waste Report.

The first Methven Community Board Meeting for the year. Left: Fay Barrand, Simon Wareing, Robin Jenkinson, Richie Owen, Chairperson Megan Fitzgerald, Mayor Liz McMillan, Councillor Deb Gilkison, Councillor Jeanette Maxwell.

- Methven Community Board (MCB) Grants - will introduce four grant funding rounds to tie in with meeting times
- Will trial audio and visual live-streaming of Meetings
- A bus trip around the district for Councillors is upcoming and MCB is welcome to join for the Methven component
- Megan has been accepted on to the Zone 5 Young Elected Members Committee

Roading: No stopping and loading zone markings on Methven Chertsey Rd are now in place outside Methven Central. It has already alleviated the congestion. Will speed now be an issue with clearer vision? It will be monitored. Neil will put road tubes/counters out. The new road maintenance contract with Fulton Hogan started on 1 December 2025.

Three Waters: Wastewater Treatment Plant-damage may have occurred by lighting strikes causing alarm failure. The unit that failed shut the whole computer system down. The duration of the loss of water for Methven was approximately three hours. A separate alarm system will be be installed in the tanks. There is a 24 hour service that residents can call through to.

Solid Waste: A full plan was drafted a few years ago for Methven's Refuse Transfer Station (RTS) with an integrated green waste facility. Capability for trucks to be loaded for transport to Kate Valley. The truck would drop two bins and collect two bins. Caravan dump station would stay where it is. Methven has someone manning for 20 hours per week at our current site, Rakaia has 12 hours. Line Road is the preferred site which will use the current site plus the Council owned section next door. Vaughans Road will close in the not too distant future with green waste incorporated into the upgraded facility. Funding of the development will be included in the next Long Term Plan.

Stockwater Exit Update: Neil: BCI (Barrhill Chertsey Irrigation) drafted a programme to offer alternate supply. Due to have a meeting with ECAN to discuss Mt Harding Stream. Have done a report on flows so that when we meet with ECAN we have as much information as possible. Megan asked if races are closed and potential flooding of town in future - what mitigating swales will be put in place? ADC now has an expert Stormwater Engineer employed to look at this. Alot of the the races are on private property so ADC don't have control of that. Culverts are roading assets. Anything on road reserves are roading structure and likely to remain as part of stormwater. Methven Auxiliary investigation is complete and a closure report will be considered by the Stockwater Transition Working group and ADC this year. Neil said the Pudding Hill Race partial closure will have negligible impact on Mt Harding Stream.

Reserves: Town Feature Lighting - Bert Hoffman is going to have another go at seeing if there is any improvement. Ian is liaising with EA Networks to progress it.

Rubbish Bins - Liz: how often is there a stocktake of bins? Are the bins in the right places? Intentionally none in parks and walkway so that people take their own rubbish home and dispose of it properly.

Mt Hutt Memorial Hall (MHMH) - MHMH Board looked at change to management, which will now fall initially to MCB. Megan acknowledged hundreds of volunteer hours of MHMH Board.

Playground inspections continue on a weekly cycle with maintenance as required.

Local builders are replacing wooden seat slats on town seats and the CBD litter bins progressing as budget allows until complete.

Weed spraying has occurred in between rain. Town gardens looking great.

Building Services: (Numbers in brackets are 2024). December 2025 Consents issued: 5 (3). Issued Year To Date: 81 (62), Value of Work: $2,364,000 ($2,550,000). Value of Work Year To Date: $25,004,146 ($26,716,195).

Next Methven Community Board Meeting: 9th March.

New Aerators for Methven Wastewater

The Methven Wastewater Treatment Plant will have six ageing aerators replaced, and a new inlet screen before winter this year.

Group Manager of Infrastructure Neil McCann said that the aerators are scheduled to be replaced as they reach the end of their operational life.

"The current units will be swapped out for two modern aerdisc directional aerators, to improve the plant's efficiency and reliability into the future."

An aerator at work in the Wilkins Road wastewater treatment plant at Ashburton

The contract for the aerator replacement has been awarded to Aeris Global Limited, the same company that installed seven directional aerators at Ashburton's Wilkins Road wastewater treatment plant in 2024.

The inlet screen contract has been awarded to a partnership between ARC Projects and Brown Brothers.

"The new inlet screen will remove large, non-biodegradable solids and debris from incoming sewage.

"It will protect our pumps and substantially reduce our solid waste handling and maintenance costs.

"The equipment reduces water content, which brings our tonnage to landfill down considerably."

The total cost of all the wastewater treatment plant works was budgeted for $460,000 in the 2024-34 Long Term Plan.

Speed Limit Changes Proposed

Targeted speed limit changes are being proposed on state highways across the South Island after community concerns were raised about safety.

This month, New Zealand Transport Agency Waka Kotahi (NZTA) will open public consultations for people to have their say on these proposed changes in Canterbury, on the West Coast and in Southland, which affect Mid Cantabrians and where they might be travelling to.

The proposed speed limit changes include the following:

- State Highway 1 (SH1) at both ends of Temuka, South Canterbury – northern section 70km/h to 50km/h, southern section 80km/h to 60km/h
- SH1 south of Amberley (North Canterbury) – 80km/h to 60km/h
- SH1 south of Rolleston (near Christchurch) – 100km/h to 80km/h
- SH75 north of Halswell (Christchurch) – 60km/h to 50km/h
- SH73 Kirwee and Sheffield (Central Canterbury) – 70km/h to 50km/h
- SH67 and SH67A Westport south including Buller Bridge (West Coast) – 100km/h to 60km/h
- SH7 at Blacks Point (West Coast) – 70km/h to 60km/h
- Introduction of Intersection Speed Zones* on SH1 at Norwood and SH73 at Waddington (Central Canterbury), and SH6 at Five Rivers (Southland) – 100km/h to 100/60km/h variable

Intersection Speed Zones (ISZs) feature electronic signage that temporarily lower the speed limit when a vehicle approaches to turn from or onto a side road.

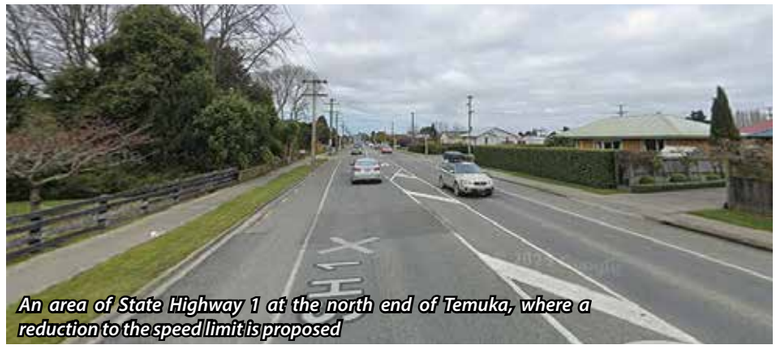
"These proposed changes are highly targeted, covering just 12 kilometres of the South Island's 5,000km state highway network, but they will make a real difference where it matters most," says NZTA director of regional relationships for the central and lower South Island, James Caygill.

"We're focused on saving lives and reducing serious injuries without adding unnecessary delays for drivers."

Each proposal meets the requirements of the Government's Setting of Speed Limits Rule 2024, which mandates six weeks of public consultation before decisions are finalised. New limits will become legally enforceable once signs are installed and uncovered.

NZTA's targeted approach to state highway speed management under the 2024 Rule prioritises:

- Schools Variable Speed Limits (VSLs)
- ISZs for high-risk rural intersections
- Speed changes and new speed limits needed for projects and seasonal speed limits
- A small number of community requests that meet strict criteria



An area of State Highway 1 at the north end of Temuka, where a reduction to the speed limit is proposed

Go to: https://www.nzta.govt.nz/safety/driving-safely/speed/state-highway-speed-management for more information, including how to suggest a speed change. This website will have full consultation details and feedback options for the proposed changes above in late January 2026.

NEIGHBOURHOOD SUPPORT

Sue Abel

Welcome to a New Year and to 2026.

I hope everyone enjoyed a well-earned break and had a lovely Christmas - it already feels like a long time ago. It's great to see the thermal pools brimming with activity and the Methven Walkway is great for young and old with some lovely views.

Summer temperatures have been lower than usual, alongside higher-than-average rainfall. Although there have been brief periods of fine weather, we hope those harvesting are still managing to complete their crops in time.

Crime through December showed two counts reported. While apparently low in the rural areas, crime increased significantly in and around Ashburton. The two counts were burglary. Burglary from property is often targeted at unlocked premises or where entry can be gained easily. Burglars don't like to work too hard to steal. Keep gates, garages, windows and doors shut and locked.

In relation to scams, calls from someone claiming they are a known entity or 0800 numbers are on the rise. Please be aware a legitimate source will never ask you to:

- download any software or app onto your phone or computer
- repeat back a one-time code to "block a payment being made"
- transfer your money to a 'safe account' to protect it
- ask you to buy gift cards as a means of protecting your money
- say your passwords or one-time codes out loud

Take care, stay safe and look out for your neighbours.

Neighbourhood Support NEW ZEALAND

Reflecting on 2025 & Our Services

Every year is different at Hospice Mid Canterbury (HMC) and as 2025 drew to a close, HMC could reflect with quiet pride on another year of locals supporting locals.

The Ashburton District has been extraordinarily generous in its support of HMC. Last year, five new sponsors came on board, making a valuable contribution to our sustainability. Many community organisations and events made donations, too many to itemise, but a special thank you goes to the Shear for Life committee for the huge amount raised for HMC. Community generosity, through donations of goods and shop purchases also ensured that the Hospice shop continues to be an important source of funding.

At the heart of what HMC does are the clients and their families, many of whom receive long term support over a number of years. With around fifty new clients last year, HMC must constantly assess and respond to the changing needs of each one. New initiatives included the Good Grief café for those managing grief and an additional exercise class with Neuro Tuesday added to Wheels Wednesday and Mens' Friday.

Volunteers are fundamental to HMC and direct client support by volunteers, including visiting, transport and shopping, has steadily increased over the last five years, from 105 hours in 2020 to well over 300 hours in 2025. Last year, our pet service support team were particularly busy!

Community education is an important aspect of HMC's role, and last year five education sessions were well attended. These included workshops on Advance Care planning, funerals, understanding grief and learning more about how children deal with grief. A mini-expo on HMC included a session on palliative care in Ashburton and the various organisations, both clinical and non-clinical, which can support those needing help.

Hospice Mid Canterbury (HMC) is known as a "no beds, no meds" community hospice. That means it isn't about clinical palliative treatment but about providing complementary care and support when people are dealing with a terminal diagnosis.

Here's a summary of what HMC does:

At Kōwhai House:

- Complementary therapies such as Massage, Reflexology and Reiki
- Weekly Exercise Therapy classes
- Chair Yoga
- A monthly activity programme
- Breakaway Café for caregivers
- Good Grief Café for bereavement support
- HMC library

At Home:

- Sitting and companionship
- Biographies
- Pet Walking
- Shopping and transport assistance
- Outings
- Complementary Therapies

Other services:

- Counselling
- Portrait photography

When Blood Sugar Doesn't Behave

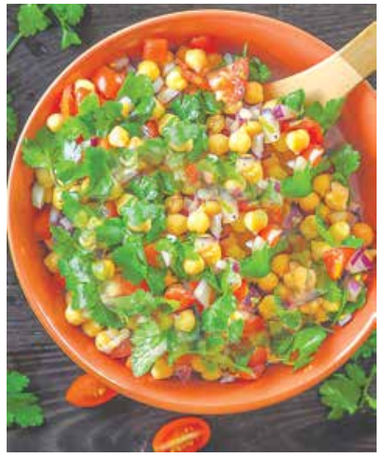
Why Midlife Women Shouldn't Ignore Insulin Resistance

More and more people are waking up to a hidden health problem - Insulin resistance. It's not just a "diabetes thing." It affects everyday energy, metabolism, weight, mood, and long-term health. For women moving through perimenopause or menopause, insulin resistance can become a real game changer because hormonal shifts can make the body more vulnerable.

So, what is insulin resistance, exactly? In simple terms: it's when your body's cells stop listening to insulin properly. Insulin is the hormone that helps move sugar from your bloodstream into your cells (for fuel or storage). When cells become less responsive to insulin, your blood sugar stays too high, your pancreas pumps out more insulin and eventually this can spiral into pre-Diabetes or Type 2 Diabetes. On top of that, insulin resistance often promotes fat storage (especially around the belly), makes weight loss harder, can lead to metabolic slowdown, inflammation and increased risk of heart and liver issues.

That matters for midlife women because hormonal changes, especially dropping estrogen affects how our bodies handle sugar and store fat. Research shows that as estrogen declines with menopause, many women begin storing more fat around the belly and become more insulin resistant even without significant weight gain. Some of the metabolic shifts seen in post-menopause - increased abdominal fat, unfavourable cholesterol and lipid changes, reduced muscle mass, all feed into insulin resistance.



The connection is clear: loss of estrogen and the body's changing balance can worsen insulin sensitivity, meaning more sugar stays floating in the bloodstream instead of fueling your cells. The good news? You can absolutely influence this.

Small, realistic habits make a huge difference:

- Eat fibre and protein at each meal to stabilise blood sugar
- Keep a regular eating rhythm (no starving all day then overeating at night)
- Move often - especially strength training to help your muscles clear sugar from your blood
- Prioritise sleep plus stress support, which directly affect metabolic health

If you're noticing changes in your energy, weight, sleep, mood or body shape in your 40s or 50s - don't just chalk it up to "getting old." It could be your metabolism adjusting to new hormonal and metabolic rhythms. The good news: you have tools.

By eating well (fibre, protein, regular meals), moving regularly, caring for your stress levels and sleep, you give your body the best possible chance to stay insulin-responsive and healthy - not just now, but for decades to come.

GROW YOUR OWN

Mary Ralston

We knew this already, but it's good to be reminded: fruit and veg can significantly reduce the effects of ageing.

Here's a summary of an article I read on the benefits of various foods, many of which we can grow ourselves:

Spinach, kale, lettuce and cabbage: contain folate, nitrate, alpha-tocopherol, lutein, etc., all of which are very good at slowing cognitive decline. Even one serving per day has benefits, slowing cognitive decline by up to 11 years compared to people who didn't eat these veges.

Citrus: helps fight age-related free radical damage because they contain antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties. They're especially good for skin.

Nuts: people who ate nuts (including peanuts) were at a lower risk of cardiovascular disease and dementia, but this doesn't apply to peanut butter (maybe the squishing of the peanuts exposes it to air, causing oxidation).

Yoghurt: all that good calcium, protein and gut-friendly probiotics delay the ageing process and those who ate regular servings of yoghurt were less likely to be obese.

Dark chocolate: good news here! It's a good source of flavonoids, which are also found in tea, berries, oranges, apples and grapes. Regular consumption is associated with a 16% lower risk of premature death.

Turmeric: the compound curcumin in turmeric has powerful anti-inflammatory effects which slows down the ageing process.

Pulses: peas, beans, lentils are all great at lowering the risk of colon cancer. They also reduce the risk of other cancers and heart disease, and improve skin health.

Eggs: it's the lutein in eggs that helps maintain good brain function and memory.

Apples: they are a wonder food, not just containing flavonoids but something called fisetin, which may prolong lifespan.

Beetroot: increases blood flow around the body, which is especially good for the brain.

Avocados: make you look younger, due to phytonutrients, fibre and fatty acids that are beneficial to skin and general health.

Fluids: keep drinking water – about 1.5-2 litres a day (although if you drink when you're thirsty and don't eat too many salty foods, I'm sure it would be enough).

This of course is not a complete study, and because it's listing mostly fruit and veg, it misses the benefits of meat and fish.

EMPLOYMENT

Casual / Permanent School Bus Drivers

We are now recruiting for responsible people with excellent driving skills.

If you are well presented, professional and able to deliver a high standard of customer service, we would love to hear from you.

Full training will be provided, if you do not currently hold a Class 2 licence and/or P endorsement, we are happy to assist with you obtaining.

School bus drivers play an integral part in our community. If you are looking for just a few hours work a day, this may be something you might like to talk to us about. You may just want to work mornings, you may just want to work afternoons, you may want just a specific day or days of the week? Talk to us.
